D. F. FORTNEY'S ADDRESS, &C.

D. F. Fortney, Chairman of the Democratic County Committee, has let loose in an address to the people of Centre county, and published it in the last Watchman. In that address he arraigns the Republican party with connivance with Evans—the State Agent, whom he calls a "Thief and scoundrel to escape: because he is a Republican and that the Republican party has distroyed the rights of the people—annually robbed the Treasury of the nation. Hundreds of thousands have been stolen from the Treasury of the State by a corrupt and loathsome Ring with which Stanton and Beath are connected."

And then he says: "The Democratic party once in power will restore your rights, &c., and bring thousands of public plunderers to speedy punishment."

This is the inherent language used by this pious member of the Y. M. C. A., clearly proving the adage, that you cannot make a silk purse out of a pigs ear, while it justifies their nominating convention in rejecting him as a candidate for District Attorney—leaving the political pauper to look for notoriety in another channel, if it should be collector of taxes.

We cannot believe that the masses of the Democratic party approve of the "Pot-house" epithets cast upon the Republican party by this fellow Fortney—"robbers, thieves, scoundrels, and public plunderers," when we find him published in the Watchman of the 24th of February 1871, as a defaulting collector for the year 1869.

In 1869 the Commissioners finding D. F. Fortney, a student at Law without means hailing from Ferguson township, undertook to supply his wants in professional life by appointing him collector of county and State taxes of the Borough of Bellefonte, for the year 1869, amounting to $2,933,04 and we find in the Auditors' Report of the 24th of February, 1871, that Treasurer Wolf gave him credit up to that time of having payed into the Treasury $600, leaving him in default of paying two thousand three hundred and fifty-three dollars and four cents, (2,353,04).

With this charge published by the County Auditors' in the Watchman uncontradicted to this day, is not D. F. Fortney, Esq., a pretty chap to charge the Republican party with being public plunderers, thieves, &c.?

Treasurer Wolf, by our comments was compelled to exonorate Martin Brumgard. But not a word appears in favor of, or in excuse for Fortney's defalcation.

True he became a candidate for District Attorney, confident of being nominated and elected. And on the strength thereof he purchased Wharton's criminal Law books—dressed fashionably, travelled often—went west on visits, electioneered over the county, was quite liberal, particularly at Rebersburg, and this of course took money.

But there was a difference of opinion with the people and the estimate he placed upon himself, and he was, therefore, defeated and rejected and there he remains, the knave in morals—a hypocrite in temperance and profession of religion, and a defaulter as collector of 1869. He is certainly a pretty bird to talk of the corruption of the Republican party.

STATE TAX ON OCCUPATION.—As there is some confusion prevailing in the public mind with reference to the repeal of the State tax on occupation, Russell Errett, Chairman of the State Central Committee, gives the following information respecting the legislation last winter in relation to this tax:

"The law referred to was passed July 2d, and repeals that part of the act of April 29, 1844, which imposes a tax of 2 per centum on salaries and emoluments and 1 per cent, on incomes of tradesmen occupations and professions over $200. It seems, however, that there was a prior act, passed in 1834, authorizing a county tax on incomes and professions, which this act does not repeal. It simply repeals so much of the act of April 29, 1844, as is above referred to. The intention was, probably, to sweep both State and county tax away; but the framer of the repealing act overlooked the statute of 1834, and left it still in force."

TREASURER WOLF AND THE FINANCES AGAIN.

"It moves me more than folly ought,
When some green heads as void of wit as thought,
Think's themselves monopolists of sense.
And other men's ability pretence."

So it is with Treasurer S. S. Wolf. In our strictures on the financial condition of the people's taxes as settled and passed upon by the county Auditor, and published in the Watchman of the 24th of February, 1871, we mentioned Treasurer Wolf as a person from his stand point, who had it in his power to make himself acquainted with the facts, and could sustain our statement—as he had boasted, that it was through him that the commissioners were compelled to publish the "statement showing the receipts and expenditures of Centre county, from the 2nd day of January 1870, to the 2nd day of January 1871, the balances outstanding on duplicates of 1870 and previous years" as appears in the "Auditors Report" and thus expose the defaulting collectors, and that he knew, or could have informed himself that the commissioners were borrowing money at 12 per cent to defray the ordinary expenses of the county, while the defaulting collectors for years had in their pockets, the peoples taxes—more than would pay off the county debt and leave $5,123,69 balance in favor of the county" as stated in the Auditors Report published in the Watchman of the 24th February 1871. But we read in the Watchman of the 25th of August 1871, an attempt to justify the Commissioners and himself in their dereliction of duty, signed a paper "which in charity to him" we believe "he did not read nor understand," as it placed him in the ridiculous position of ascerting "that the careful reader will observe" by glancing over his list of "defaulting collectors" that about $30,000 of the above amount is charged to collectors of the county, for the year 1870," while in the settlement of his account as Treasurer, with the Commissioners and Auditors, he claims a credit of $16,114,73 for out-standing taxes for the year 1869 and previous years and not a cent for 1870.

He denies that the county had borrowed money, instead of compelling the defaulting collectors to pay over the monies in their hands, at 12 per cent to defray the ordinary expenses of the county. This reckless statement, compelled us in our last, reluctantly, to expose this financial dupe, stating that he signed a "paper he did not read nor understand" while we find in his own Treasury account that he is charged with having over paid some of his friends out of the county funds $226,50.

What a careful custodian? What a splendid and careful accountant! And now we find that Simon has "an itching palm" to appear in print, as we find in the Watchman of the 2nd inst., that some other scribe has got him to sign his initials to a piece of irony, ascerting that our strictures on the custodians of the county is "coupled with bad grammer and worse orthography." Freezer! is not that rich? What, is Simon doing it? Does he intend to supercede Prof. Magee in the common schools, where "bad grammar and worse orthography will be banished? While all the urchans

"Declared how much he knew
——————and still the wonder grew,
That one small head could carry all it knew."

Oh! Simon!! While his ring master in irony and duplicity procures his name to a paper justifying the defaulting collectors as "the best men in the county" for not paying the taxes into the Treasury, so that the county debt could be paid off and the taxes lowered.

Is Simon not to be pitied? But this will not relieve the people of the six mill tax. It must be collected.

GOV. GEARY'S CONNECTION WITH THE STATE WAR CLAIM.

We have carefully watched the course of discussion elicited by the rash action of Deputy Attorney McClure, in regard to Pennsylvania's War Claims against the United States and by no one journalist or official has Gov. Geary's integrity been impugned.

His action ceased when he signed the Resolution and appointed the Agent to collect these claims, and whatever interested or disinterested parties may declare, the of the statements made in connection with this business in no way impugn the official action or the moral purity of his Excellency, Gov. Jno. W. Geary.

He appointed Mr. Geo. O. Evans to make certain collections authorized by a special resolution of the Legislature, so that whatever course of conduct Mr. Evans pursued after he was inducted into office and had given the necessary bonds, for the faithful performance of his duty, Gov. Geary had neither the power to direct him, nor the authority to define and fix his course of proceeding. The Legislature by the terms of its Resolution, creating this Agent, fixed the character of his work and arranged the amount of his pay, and, at the same time, making the construction of the Resolution under which he acted, such as in spirit to enjoin and compel the Gov. to see that this Agent received the necessary paper and documents to proceed with his work and make collection of the claims thus placed in his hands against the general government. According to our view of the case, and we have examined it with some care, Gov. Geary's duty ended here.

He had no further control over the Agent, who according to the rules and usages governing the financial affairs of the Commonwealth, came under the authority of the accounting officers thereof, whose explicit duty it is to see that all accounts due the Commonwealth are promptly settled and all amounts claimed against it are properly paid.

The Press of the Commonwealth that understand this subject, regard it in this light, and therefore, it is as we asserted in the outset of this article, we have failed to see in all the acrimonious discussion, which has sprung from this tangled affair, a single charge made against the personal or official integrity of Gov. Geary.

We have no apology or defense to write for George O. Evans. Technically we have no doubt he will be able to make his own defense aided by learned counsel; but morally and personally he rests under imputations which it will be difficult for him to cast off. But we take pleasure and pride, as well for the sake of the party whose central official figure he now is in State affairs as for the man personally, emphatically to declare that the more the Evans embroglio is discussed the closer we scrutinize it and the severer the analyzing test of truth apply to it, the stronger is the proof of the Governor's entire purity of conduct, of his regard for the public interest and his entire faithfulness in the discharge of his official actions.

Our sense of duty as a Republican journalist as well as our jealous regard for the integrity of a Republican State Administration, impels us to give this assurance to our readers, that their devotion to Republican men and measures may not be abated.

QUERIES FOR WM. M'CANDLESS.

General William M'Candless, you were a member of the Senate in 1869, when the Fifteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution was before that body for ratification. On that amendment you made a speech, and that speech is published in the Legislative Record, page 954; and in that speech, speaking of the friends of that measure, you said: "They are sapping the very foundation of our liberties by the theory contained in the so-called Fifteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution."

Speaking to General Fisher, one of the Senators from Lancaster, you said: "The shade of Thadeus will rise to your support, and give you some reason for surrendering to Federal power the very citadel of the liberties of the people of your State."

Further on you said:

"The patriots of the revolution battled for years on many a doubtful and bloody field to establish, which they did successfully, the right of local self-government on this continent, and now in the space of three hours, the majority in this chamber will set aside, as far as in them lies, the handiwork of the fathers of the republic."

"The solar system acts by the immutable laws of nature; our system by the mutability of the political necessities of an unscrupulous party. If their action tends to a centralization of power in the Federal government (as the passage of this joint resolution will assure) your State rights and personal liberties will melt away as would the planets were they in like manner drawn by the sun, their central power, from their respective orbits."

"If you succeed in doing this, you not only overthrow our form of government, but tear up its very foundations."

"Can we approve the present proposition, and hope, in the future, to control any domestic relation of the State if the centralized power at Washington says nay? Assuredly not."

"Can you preserve your form of government if you permit a power existing outside of the State to regulate and control the vote of the people within it? To ask the question is to answer it. Common sense must teach you that the vital power of the States, in their separate capacity is gone, and you are governed by a centralized despotism."

"What more fatal measure can be adopted than the one now proposed."

"A human being might as well be declared to live after the breath had left the body, as a State to exist when it shall have parted with this vital principle."

Now, General, we take it for granted that in using this language you were speaking your true sentiments; that you verily believed that the Fifteenth Amendment "saps the very foundation of our liberties," surrenders "the very citadel" of these liberties, and "sets aside the handiwork of the fathers of the republic;" that under it our "State rights and personal liberties will melt away," that it "overthrows our form of government" and "tears up its very foundations," that it is a "fatal measure," and that it leaves the State dead—devoid of all "vital principle."

Very good. If you thought so, then, you were right in saying so. But, do you think so still? If not, why do you not take back the many hard things you said then, and acknowledge, like a man, that you were all wrong, and that all these mutterings were but the sickly vapors of a diseased brain?

But, General William McCandless, if you do think so still (and we take it for granted you do), how, as a good citizen, much less as a good Democrat, can you now "acquiesce" in an amendment so revolutionary, so fraught with direful consequences, and confess your willingness to treat it as an integral part of the Constitution? Either you were vaporing, then, or you cannot be honest, now. No honest man, no good citizen, can acquiesce in an amendment which he characterizes as "surrendering the very citadel of our liberties," sapping the very foundations," of our government, a "fatal measure" which destroys the very life of the State. If he believes this, he is a recreant to his State and a traitor to his principles if he now "acquiesces" in it all simply because it is an accomplished fact.

We leave to the accomplished William the task of wriggling out of this dilemma. He is either a false prophet or a traitor knave. If what he said in 1869 was mere buncombe or blarney for effect, he is an unfit man for any public trust. And if that speech was the honest utterance of what he really thought and believed, he is of all men the most dangerous, because he now expresses a willingness to submit to what he believes to be a fundamental wrong, and thus confesses that, no matter how wrong a thing may be, he will submit to it without resistance. In 1869 he regarded the Fifteenth Amendment as a usurpation and revolutionary. In 1871, the usurpation and revolution being accomplished, he submits without further cavil; and then he gives the world notice that he, William M'Candless, does not resist, but acquiesces in usurpations and revolutions when they are successful, no matter how destructive they may be to civil liberty. What he wants is an office; and it is all one to him if it is under a government which, according to his own showing, has been overturned.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AS A RETRENCHMENT PARTY.

The Republican Legislature of 1868 passed an act, still on the statute books, fixing the number and compensation of the officers of each branch of the Legislature.

The number of officers of the Senate was fixed at 1 chief clerk, 2 assistants, 4 transcribing clerks, 1 librarian, I sergeant-at-arms and 2 assistants, 1 doorkeeper and 2 assistants, 1 messenger and two assistants, 1 superintendent of the folding room and 6 pasters and folders, 1 doorkeeper of the rotunda, 1 postmaster, 1 fireman and 5 pages—32 in all.

The Republican Senate of 1869 was organized in strict compliance with this law, the Republican members presenting a resolution for the election of candidates for the places above named, no more and no less. But, before their election took place, the Democratic members, to show their conviction that this was providing more offices than the Senate really needed, put forward Mr. Burnett and M'Candless to offer an amendment to the resolution, for the election of a smaller number of officers, to wit: by leaving out one of the assistant messengers, the postmaster, and all the pasters and folders. For this amendment all the Democratic Senators voted, the vote standing 15 to 18.

The Democratic Senators, when in the minority, thus placed themselves on the record as believing that this was all the Senate needed, in the way of officers—that the act of 1868 was, in fact, too liberal.

In 1871 the Democrats had, accidentally, a majority in the Senate. Did they carry out, then, their programme of 1869? Let us see.

They put themselves on record, then, as thinking that the Senate needed no pasters and folders, and that that body could get along with less officers than the law allowed. But the moment they came into power, they proceeded to elect not only all the officers authorized by the law of 1868, but more than the legal number, although that act positively prohibits the election of any greater number of officers by either branch. As for instance:

The law of 1868 allows two assistant clerks; the Democratic Senate had three; the law allows only four transcribing clerks; they had five; the law authorizes two assistant doorkeepers; they had three; the law provides for six pasters and folders; they had eight; they had also three firemen, where the law allows but one. And one watchman, one janitor, one laborer and one assistant librarian, for none of which was there any provision of law, to say nothing of nine pages, where they could legally employ but five.

We thus find 15 Democratic Senators voting in 1869 that the Senate needed no pasters and folders, and 17 Democratic Senators in 1871 voting to employ and pay nine (including the superintendent) of these useless officers. The same 15 Senators declared in 1869 that the law of 1868 was too liberal, and allowed more officers than the Senate needed; whilst the 17 Senators voted the number altogether too small, and proceeded to multiply new officers without stint. The difference is, the 15 were in the minority; the 17 were in the majority. It is a very retrenching and economical party when it is out of power, but a very expensive one when it gets in.

The law of 1868 authorizes the Senate to elect or employ 32 officers, including every subordinate; the Democratic Senate of 1871 elected or employed 49 officers—17 more than the law allowed, and 26 more than the Senate really needed, themselves being judges, as is evidenced by their vote for Burnett's resolution in 1869.

But this is not all. The act of 1868 fixed the compensation of all these officers, and enacted that under no circumstances should they be permitted to draw more pay or receive any extra allowance. This wholesome provision of law was totally disregarded by these Democratic retrenchers. The pay of nearly all the officers is fixed by that law at $600 each; but the 49 officers employed by the Democratic Senate have already been paid $47,904 50—or an average of nearly a thousand dollars each.

Look, people of Pennsylvania, at these figures. The pay of the officers of the Republican Senate of 1870 was $36,466 65, and the total cost of the session was $92,260 35. The pay of the officers of the Democratic Senate of 1871 was $47,904 50, nearly double that of the previous session; and the total expenses of the session thus far paid are $140,757 68. As there are probably over $10,000 of claims under this head yet unpaid, it is perfectly safe to put down the total cost of the late Democratic Senate at $150,757 68—an increase over the expenses of the previous Republican Senate of $68,497 33.

This is a fair illustration of Democratic precept and practice. That party is profuse in economical professions, when out of power; but invariably, when in power, plunges into extravagance. Witness New York and the Democratic Senate of 1871.

GRAPE WINE FOR SICKNESS.—Decidedly one of the nicest and most creditable of any advertised article we have ever seen, is the wine bearing the above name from the vineyard of Mr. Alfred Speer, of Passaic, N. J. This wine is expressed from the Oporto grape, which, under the hand of Mr. Speer, has been brought to a state of great perfection. The wine possesses the very highest medicinal virtues, and certainly as an article of beverage it is not, in our judgment, to be surpassed in color, taste, or any of the qualities which constitute a pure, mild and agreeable wine.—Boston Transcript. A GLORIOUS SUMMARY—RECORD OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY—WHAT IT HAS DONE FOR LABOR.

1st. Among the first acts of the Republican Congress, after some necessary measure to resist the Democratic Rebellion, was the adoption of the Homestead law under which the whole mass of the public domain is opened to the possession and ownership of the laboring man, upon the condition of settlement and cultivation, at the nominal price of $10 for a 160 acres.

2nd. Provision was made by which this vast property is largely enhanced in value, and rendered accessible to men of limited means, over the lines of the Trans-continental Railroad—the construction of which, had been delayed under Democratic rule, by the fear that free labor would possess this rich inheritance, to the exclusion of slave labor.

3rd. The whole system of servile labor was abolished by the Republican party, in spite of the united and persistent opposition of the Democracy in Congress and on the battle field.

4th. Again, the whole mass of unrequitted labor was lifted to the dignity of the country's defenders, thereby giving it enlarged opportunities, enabling it to command the attention and the sympathies of the nation, and rendering its future subjection to bondage absolutely impossible.

5th. This whole class was endowed with citizenship and all its rights and advantages—against all of which acts, Democrats in Congress and in the States, recorded a united negative—yet it is easy to see, that each successive step added immeasurably to the dignity and power of labor.

6th. The whole remaining public lands of the South, were reserved from sale, and appropriated to the exclusive use of actual settlers, by which, the landless laborers of that section, come to the ownership of more than 45,000,000 acres, sufficient for half a million of homes of 80 acres each, and by which, also, the further progress of land monopoly in that section is forever stopped.

7th. It has given guaranty by a solemn and unanimous declaration of the House of Representatives, that the future land policy of the party shall be in the interest of individual occupation and ownership, and opposed to sales or grants under conditions, which will admit the further growth of personal or corporate monopoly.

8th. And finally it has given practical evidence of its fidelity to the principles of land distribution to actual occupants, through its organized land committees, and in the defeat of numerous land grant bills, at the recent session of Congress.

GOVERNOR GEARY AND HIS DEFAMERS.

For several weeks the public has been treated to discussions of the Evans case, and every possible attempt has been made to implicate Governor Geary. It was not to be expected that Democratic journals would be just in their criticisms of the affair. To have been so, they would have naturally regarded as bad policy on the eve of an important election. But it was reasonably to be expected that no journal professing to be Republican, and claiming to be regarded as a respectable organ of public opinion would join in the false and shameful clamor. It may be surprising to some that in all this there has been no reply.

The attitude the Governor assumes toward the matter is that it would be unworthy of himself, and of his position as Chief Magistrate of the State, to make or permit his friends to make, any specific answer whatever to inuendos and insinuations made by parties mainly in ignorance of the real facts. The case has now been transferred for settlement to the courts of Dauphin county. All the facts, involving in any way the action of any officer of the State administration, will be elicited during the trial. The people will thus be enabled to judge and determine for themselves. Besides this it is the Governor's intention to lay the whole case before the General Assembly at its next session, and demand an investigation. He thinks that by passing it through this double ordeal the whole truth may the more surely be made known.

The Governor painfully feels himself to be entitled to better treatment. He has, at different periods, been called by his countrymen to positions of great public responsibility, in which millions were committed to his keeping, and not one cent that did not legally and morally belong to him was ever found in his hands. He has been twice elected Governor by the people of his native State; and he regards it as due to them—to the record of his own private and public life—to his family and to the honorable poverty in which advancing years now find him—that it shall be known beyond the possibility of doubt that he is an honest man.—State Journal.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN

BELLEFONTE, PA.

We give the following communication a hearty welcome, and send it on its way rejoicing:

Editor of Wood's Household Magazine:

The following lines came warm from my heart on reading your earnest words in reply to the chaplain of the Soldier's Home, in your August number. You said just what I feel: I love all who love our soldiers; and may be it would do them good to read, even in stanzas as simple as mine, how we love them and pray for them still, remembering daily now much we owe them, but I leave that to your judgment:

God bless our crippled soldiers! in whose scarred forms to-day
We read the price which freemen for freedom dared to pay,
Whose empty sleeves and crutches remind us of the debt
Which never can be cancelled, which we never can forget.

Oh boys who faced death for us! oh, boys who saved our land!
Quenching with your own life-blood, fierce treason's flaming brand,
The thought of all your suffering, the pain and loss, you know,
And the life-long cross you carry, makes every heart o'erflow.

We cannot bear it for you, that heavy, heavy cross,
No human love or friendship can make up to you the loss
Of priceless limbs that ne'er shall do your bidding more,
Nor can we health and vigor to your shattered frames restore,
Yet, all our hearts are with you: in many a fervent prayer
We ask the great All-Father to make your lives His care;
We ask that on you ever, His blessing may descend,
And His love, which can help you, be with you to the end.

Bless them, oh, Heavenly Father! we ask in Jesus' name,
Hear us, oh dear Redeemer! Thy heart is still the same
As when, our flesh assuming, stopping our life to share,
Thou didst know all the sorrow and the pain that mortals bear.

Thou knowest still, Thou carest, Thou hearest, when we pray,
Not one of all our soldiers from Thee is far away,
Be Thine their strength and succor till earthly needs are past,
And give to each a welcome to Thine own home at last.

BESSIE LAEE.

BIANCA'S LOVE LIFE.

"Well, if I ever!" cried honest Mrs. Gaskin, staring delightfully at the tricks of the trained monkey that was attached to Michael Peroni's barrel organ.

The noon shadows slantered across the green sward in front of the farm house door: the tall white lilies and thickets of blue larkspurs drooped in the hot sunshine, and the corn fields at the back of the house nodded their multitudinous green heads in the occasional zephyrs, as the farmer's wife, with her little ones clinging shyly to her skirts, stood in the door-way, listening to the drone of the organ and little Bianca's shrill yet sweet voice, as she danced and sang, clattering her castanets high in the air.

"And I don't believe she's a day older than my Maggie," said Mrs. Gaskin, as little Georgie, scarcely as yet able to toddle without assistance, crept across the short dandelion starred grass to put his penny in the monkey's withered palm. Dear heart alive! there's something sad about it, too!"

And when the song and dance was finished, Mrs. Gaskin beckoned to the brilliant eyed swarthy elf who stood pushing the wavy, jet black locks away from her forehead.

"You're to come in, my dear," she said "you and your father—"

"But he is not my father," interrupted the child, almost impatiently.

"Well, the foreigner, any how, and get a slice of my home-made loaf and a good dish of milk. I'll go bail he won't object to that."

Little Bianca turned and chattered something in Italian to her companion. He displayed his glittering white teeth in a smile, and bowed obsequiously to the farmer's wife. Mrs. Gaskin led the way in, and with a bustling hospitality spread the board for Peroni, Bianca, and even the poor shriveled face monkey.

"Isn't she a pretty child!" whispered Mrs. Gaskin to her old maid sister, Miss Drussilla, and she was right. Bianca was very beautiful, in spite of her sun-embrowned skin, bare feet and ragged scarlet frock. Her eyes large and liquid, were full of the deepening sunshine of her native Italy; her features were small and regular, and her mouth as ripe and rosy as the biggest strawberry now ripening on the vines under the south garden fence.

"Ah!" sighed Drusilla Peck, "it is a pity she should have to tramp round the country to sing songs and dance dances for a livin'."

And when Bianca turned away, fantastically returning thanks for the entertainment she had received, by kissing Mrs. Gaskin's toil hardened hand, the good woman's motherly heart fairly ached for the lonely, lovely child, who seemed as if it were adrift upon the world.

Not until the party of foreign adventurers had been gone more than two hours, did Mrs. Gaskin discover to her unspeakable dismay, that one of the silver spoons which had been heirlooms from her dead and buried grandmother, and the little silver mug that David, her eldest boy, had in the days of his babyhood, were gone also.

"I knew it!" dolorously groaned Miss Drusilla. "These foreign jugglers are all light-fingered. What else could ye expect, Amanda Ann?"

Mrs. Gaskin fairly sat down and cried—not so much, it must be confessed, for the battered silver mug and antiquated teaspoon, as for the ruthless demolishment of the many castles in the air she had built around the sweet face and fairy figure of black-eyed little Bianca.

"I never, never will believe in anybody again," sobbed the farmer's wife.

The purple shadows of twilight were just stealing down over the cornfields, and making a dreamy sort of chiaro-oscuro over hill and slope and misty river dale, when Mrs. Gaskin, rocking George to sleep on her lap with one of the sweet, stereotyped old cradle songs that all mothers know by heart, was startled by a slight tap on her shoulder.

"Signora?" cried a soft voice in her ear.

"Why, bless your soul?" cried Mrs. Gaskin, "it's the little foreigner!"

"I've brought back the cup and spoon of silver," said Bianca. "He took them—I saw it, but I dared not speak, for he is cruel in his wayward moods, and bears a heavy hand. To-night, when he lay asleep under the hedge, I stole them from his pocket, and here they are."

Mrs. Gaskin started first at the unexpectedly recovered property, and then at Bianca.

"Sit down and rest yourself a spell," said she, "before you go back. You're all out of breath."

"I am not going back," said Bianca resolutely. "He would beat me to death. But you kissed me, and gave me bread to eat and milk to drink. I could not let him steal your treasures."

"What are you going to do?" asked Mrs. Gaskin, still mechanically rocking George back and forth on her knee.

"I dod't know," Bianca answered recklessly. "I have run away."

"Run away! and you not twelve years old?"

The child gave a curious Italian shrug to her brown shoulders.

"What else can I do? I shall beg my way. I can sing, I can dance; I have my castanets here under my shawl. Oh, never fear. Bianca Nifanto need not quite starve while there are berry bushes by the road side, and clear cold water in the glens."

"That's all nonsense," interrupted honest David Gaskin's voice from the angle in the porch, where he had sat until now unnoticed. "Mother, she must stay with us."

"God bless you for the word, father," Mrs. Gaskin cried, starting up. "It's what I'd most wish for in all the world, but we've eight of our own, and it's a hard row for you to hoe, and I did'nt just like to ask it."

"One can't turn a stray lamb away from one's door," said David huskily.

And so little Bianca Nifanto stayed under the sheltering shadow of the farm house roof until one day, a stranger from the city, who was down fishing in the cool trout streams of the woods, chanced to hear her singing in the twilight.

"I never heard a sweeter voice in my life," said Mr. Milford. "It should be cultivated."

"She goes to singing school twice a week with Dave and Maggie," said Mr. Gaskin, with the air of one who feels that he has done his full duty.

"Singing-school! She should go on the stage. Such a talent as that ought not to be hidden away in a napkin."

The upshot of it was, that when Mr. Milford went away he took Bianca with him, to train her delicious young voice as he believed it was capable of being trained.

"That nightingale throat of hers will make her fortune yet! predicted Mr. Milford.

"She'll forget us all," wept poor Mrs. Gaskin, when the hour of parting came.

"No, mamma dear, I won't" cried Bianca, with a passionate burst of tears. "I'll love you always—always—for you were my friends when I had no one in all the wide world to turn to."

Five years afterwards, and the voice whose wondrous strains Geo. Milford had prophetically heard, had entranced the musical world. Bianca Nifanto was the prima donna of the operatic stage—the cantatrice whose ballards were worth a gold piece for every note; and she had come down to spend the summer with her old friends in the brown roofed farm-house.

As beautiful as ever; star-eyed and cream-skinned, with lustrous black hair worn like a coronal about her head, and unconsciously graceful ways. David Gaskin, her playmate of olden times, looked at her with mute wonder. Could it be possible that she was the little Bianca who used to climb the hay lofts with him in search of eggs, and follow, dog-like, at his heels when he went at twilight to bring home the cows?

"Ah, Bianca," he said, almost enviously, "you are a rich lady now, and a great singer. I wonder you remember us."

Bianca turned her soft eyes appealingly on him,

"Oh, David, whom should I remember if not you!"

David got up, and began to pace up and down the floor.

"I suppose that young man at the hotel is rich too?"

"What young man?"

"That Sydney Willoughby, the one who came down from New York just because you were coming."

"Yes; he is rich, I believe."

"And the gentleman with the team of cream-colored horses who is boarding at Deacon Moss's."

"Oh, Mr. Allaire!" said Bianca, innocently. "He is very wealthy too."

"It must be fine to have such a train at one's heels," said David bitterly.

"Is it my fault, David?" said Bianca, almost ready to burst into tears. "Can I bid them stay away?"

But David, determined at all hazard to be displeased, and turned sullenly into the house.

"Mammy," cried Bianca, for by this name she still addressed good Mrs. Gaskin, "what makes David so cross with me? What have I done to make him angry?"

But Mrs. Gaskin too went into the house without answering. What could she say to the beautiful young cantratice? Would it be fitting to make answer:

"My son, the hard-working farmer-lad, has ventured to fall in love with you, queen of song and beauty. Even so the feeble glow-worm aspires to the calm glitter of the star."

But Bianca could not but notice that the eyes of the good farmer's wife were swollen and red the next day.

"Mammy," she cried, "what is the matter? Are you sick?"

"Heart-sick, child," Mrs. Gaskin answered, with a great convulsive sob, "David is going away."

"David! Going away! Where?"

"To San Francisco, he says. Ah, me! and I thought he would be the stay and prop of my old age!"

"But he shan't go," cried Bianca resolutely. "I'll ask him not."

And she went out in the orchard, where David was moodily gathering a basket of gold skined "summer boughs," looking very handsome and very misanthropic in the chequered light that came streaming down through the apple-tree leaves.

"David, is it true that you are going away?"

"Yes, Bianca; it is true."

"And why?"

"Simply because I am miserable here. Isn't that reason enough?"

"David,"—the black eyelashes drooped and a soft rosy pink stole over the rich olive cheek, as Bianca stood there before him in the attitude of a suppliant—"David, would you stay if I asked you?"

The gold-checked summer-boughs went tumbling in a yellow cascade all over the short, green orchard turf. David Gaskin had unwarily let go the basket handle.

"Bianca, do you really mean it?"

"Yes, David."

"And Mr. Allaire, and Sydney Willoughy?"

"One hair of your hair, David is more, to me than both of them put together."

He clasped her little hands rapturously in his.

"Why didn't you tell me this before my own dark-eyed darling?"

"You unreasonable fellow! as if a woman wasn't always obliged to wait until she was asked!"

"I've been a jealous fool," quoth David beaming all over.

"I think you have," quoth the prima donna calmly. "And now let us go in."

David Gaskin did not go to San Francisco, and the two city gentlemen returned disconsolate to the metropolis, and Bianca is to be married in the spring; and in the mean time her voice it sweeter than ever, as she warbles the love songs of Italian romance, with an echo from her own happy heart.

A Pennsylvanian Picks up a $75-000 Diamond in South Africa.—A New York World correspondent, writing from the South African diamond fields, under date of June 15, says:

Mr. J. B. Hopkins, from Lockport, Pa., came to South Africa two months ago, and last Monday the wind blowing hard, causing thick clouds of dust so that no one could remain in their claims, Hopkins meandered out from the camp and over the plain, and observing some garnets shining on the ground about a mile and a half from camp, he dropped on his knee and elbow, and picking them up, commenced to scrape for more, when a bright point came to view. Scraping under this, out popped a magnificent fifty-five and an eighth karat diamond, octohedron, flawless and speckless, of that peculiar straw color that is so fashionable in England, and worth in the United States at least $75-000. When it made its appearance Hopkins was paralyzed for a moment, and the diamond could have been taken from him without his having the power to prevent it. Hopkins and I are partners now, and on the 4th of September we leave for America, via Cape Town and England, with over $100,000 worth of beautiful rough diamonds, of all colors, shapes and sizes.

The law forbidding the sale of intoxicating liquor within certain limits of all polls on election day, gives immense satisfaction to all parties. It is well known that all the trouble and fighting during elections spring from the drunkenness of disputants. All such laws are steps toward the final overthrow of the impure influences which can be taken without offense to any party.—Armstrong Republican.

Not so fast, Mr. Republican. The House of Representatives passed a bill prohibiting the sale of intoxicating drinks on election day, but the Democratic Senate refused to consider the bill, and the traffic in drinks on election days will be as brisk as ever.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

Courting in Siberia.

When once the young beau becomes infatuated, he makes known his passion to the father of his "affinity," and expresses his desire to strive for her hand. A kind of contract is immediately entered into, by which the young man binds himself to the father as a servant for a term of years, at the expiration of which time he can have the pleasure of learning whether the daughter will have him or not. In this manner, if the father be the happy possessor of a beautiful daughter, he may have half a dozen men ready to do his bidding at one time.

When the term of servitude expires, one of the larger youths is selected, and all the old women of the place, armed with sticks and pieces of seal-thong, are stationed in the prologs suspended around the room. The daughter then appears, thickly clad in skin garments, followed by her lover, when a race ensues around the enclosure, the contestants dodging about along the prologs. To win his bride he must overtake her, and leave the print of his nails upon her person before she can be rescued by the old women, who, during the race, impede the lover as much as possible by beating him with sticks and tripping him by seizing his legs as he rushes by them.

The advantage is all with the girl, and if she does not wish to become the wife of her pursuer, she can avoid him without difficulty. On the contrary, if she likes him, she manages to stumble, or makes known her wishes to the old women, who then only make a show of impeding her pursuer. Sometimes the lover is so desperately smitten that, just after being foiled, he returns to the father and binds himself for another period of years for privilege of making another trial.

Not so Green.

Our boat had stopped to take wood. On the shore, among the crowd, was a remarkably stupid looking fellow, with his hands in his pockets, and his upper lip hanging down.

A dandy, ripe for a scrape, nods and winks, saying "Now I'll have some fun. I'll frighten the greenhorn."

He jumped ashore with a large, drawn bowie, and brandished it in the face of the "green 'un," exclaiming, "Now I'll punish you; I have been looking for you for a week."

The fellow started stupidly at his assailant; he evidently did not know enough to be scared, but as the bowie knife came near his face, one of his huge fists suddenly vacated his pocket, and fell hard and heavy between the eyes of the dandy, and the poor fellow was floundering in the Ohio.

Greeny jumped on board our boat, put his hands in his pockets, and looking around, said, "Maybe there's somebody else that's been looking for me for a week."

Gossip.

So may people have so little to do that they find plenty of time to attend to other people's business in addition to their own.

We once knew a man that was bankrupted on account of the kindness of a friend that was too free in attending to his business. He really meant no harm, but on account of his officiousness, and not knowing the true state of his friend's business, he was the cause of his ruin.

It is customary to attribute this weakness to brainlessness, and, in contempt, to say old woman; but allow me to say that, if you find a decrepid old batchelor or a brainless fool of either sex, he is the best type of a gossip in the world. He can wag his head so significantly. He can say so much in such few words that to speak of woman as a representative is a burlesque upon his skill. May I speak plainly to show contempt for the villainous murderer of reputation when I say that no fitting place can be assigned to the destroyer of more happy homes, the desolater of more hearts and the impersonation of more hell than can be concentrated in any other victim the devil can ensnare. Pardon me, reader, but the dealer in other men's reputation should not be confined with the thief, lest the ordinary murderer, since his calling is to kill the body while this incarnate devil attempts to destroy the soul.

The Loved Faces.

Happy thoughts come stealing upon us as we look upon the faces of those we loved in other days, those we have been separated from for years, and who return again with all the changes of time and thought on their brows. The joyous feelings that arise on meeting with old familiar faces, cordial shaking of hands, and the hearty congratulations that follow—who does not remember them? But when those we love and cherish leave us forever, when their spirits pass away from earth to heaven, who would not give all on earth for a picture, even a faint resemblance of their features, ever so animated and beautiful! How many bright eyes grow dim, how many cheeks grow pale, how many lovely forms fade away into the tomb, leaving not a shadow of their loveliness!

On Friday evening a child in Pittsburg was poisoned by drinking in mistake for milk some washing fluid carelessly left in a pitcher within its reach. Death ensued within twenty-four hours.

A new name for the Grecian bend is the "back stoop."

Discontent.

The immediate causes of discontent are numberless. Some of those who seem to have all that earth can bestow—wealth, station, education, friends and talent—are the least satisfied. Trifles disconcert them. A wet day, an ill-fitting garment, a broken engagement, a slight disappointment, are sufficient to destroy their peace of mind, and render them slaves to vexation and chagrin. The main cause of discontent, however, is always to be found within. It has its origin in selfishness. Directly we forget ourselves in our efforts for others; we strike at the very root of all discontent. The truly benevolent, loving man, is seldom tormented by vain regrets at his own circumstances, and he who inwardly repines and chafes at his situation, and who is harrassed by the spirit of discontent, can in no surer way free himself from the chains that enslave him than by turning his thoughts and energies to some good work for others. There are no blessings, however rich, that discontent will not convert into evils, and no trials, however severe, that serenity and virtue may not transform into blessings.

For the Republican.

Marsh Creek, Aug. 31st 1871.

Col. Brown:

Dear Sir:—I had the pleasure of attending a celebration of the Knoll & Brickley Sunday schools.

Messrs. Jno. McCloskey and David Brickley, the Superintendents, having the affair in charge, spared nothing in making the affair very pleasant and enjoyable.

The children were formed in line of march at the church, and with banners flying and songs of gladnes led the way to the woods where a beautiful repast was spread.

The entire force were led up to the large table in good order where they made a very brave and praiseworthy attack, demolishing every thing before them and winning the contest with scarce a struggle. Then the retreat was sounded and a general good time was had. After a few hours recuperation, they advanced again, this time completely surrounding the enemy.

Several short, good telling addresses were made, and they returned home full of satisfaction and good things.

The S. S. work of our neighborhood is in a flourishing condition.

The Old Democracy wont Budge an Inch.—The West Chester (Pa.) Jeffersonian, which is styled by the Honest Democrats a paper with the ring of true Democratic metal, has the following on the Iowa Democracy:

"The late Democratic State Convention of Iowa, passed resolutions favoring the 'New Departure.' They were certainly the best prepared and least objectionable of any we have yet seen, but the party in that State averse to any 'departure' from principle—unwilling to be sold out to the negroes and their allies by selfish politicians, have called another convention for the purpose of placing the Democracy of the State in its true position before the country."

We commend it to the attention of all those who would be deceived by these "New Departure" friends.

Apt Scholars.—A teacher in a school that stood on the banks of a small river once wished to communicate to his pupils an idea of faith. While he was trying to explain the meaning of the word, a small covered boat hove in sight. Seizing upon the incident for an illustration, he exclaimed:

"If I were to tell you that there was a leg of mutton in that boat you would believe me, would you not, without even seeing it yourselves?"

"Yes, sir," replied the scholars.

"Well, that is faith," said the teacher.

The next day, in order to test their recollection, of the lesson, he inquired:

"What is faith?"

"A leg of mutton in a boat," was the answer, shouted from all parts of the school-room.

Self Taught.—Many men are said to be self-taught. No man was ever taught in any other way. Do you suppose a man is a bucket to be hung on the well of knowledge and pumped full? Man is a creature that learns by the exertions of his own faculties. There are aids to learning of various kinds; but no matter how many of these aids a man may be surrounded by, after all, the learning is that which he acquires himself. And whether he is in college or out of college, in school or out of school, every man must educate himself. And in our times and in our community, every man has the means of doing it.

The Plain Language.—"William, thee knows I never call any body names; but William, if the Mayor of the city were to come to me and say, 'John, please find me the biggest liar in Philadelphia,' I would come to thee, and put my hand on thy shoulder, and say to thee, 'William, the Mayor wants to see thee.'"

He who knows not how to perform a kind act is unreasonable if he expects to receive such acts from others.

The books in the library belonging to the British Museum occupy twelve miles of shelving.

First Failures.

Yes, indeed, if we have the right stuff in us, these failures at the outset are grand materials for success. To the feeble they are, of course, stumblingblocks. The wretched weakling goes on farther; he lags behind, and subsides into a life of failure. And so by this winnowing process the number of athletes in the great Olympics of life is restricted to a few, and there is clear space in the arena. There is scarcely an old man among us—an old and successful man—who will not willingly admit that he was made by his failures, and that what he once thought his hard fate was in reality his good fortune. And thou my bright-faced, bright-witted child, thou think est that thou canst carry Parnassus by storm; learn to possess thyself in patience. Not easy the lesson, I know not cheering the knowledge that success is not attainable, per saltum, by a hop, step and a jump, but by arduous passages of gallant perseverance, and, most of all, by repeated failures.

Hard, I know, is that last word, grating harshly upon the ear of youth. Say, then that we molify it a little—that we strip it of its outer crustaceousness and asperity. And truthfully may we do so; for these failures are, as I have said, but stepping stones to success—gradus ad Parnassum—at the worst, non attainments of the desired end before the time. If success were to crown thine efforts now, where would be the great success of the hereafter? It is the brave resolution to "do better next time" that lays the substratum of all real greatness. Many a promising reputation has been prematurely destroyed by early success. The good sap runs out from the trunk into feeble off shoots or suckers. The hard discipline of the knife is wanted. I repeat that it is not pleasant; but when thou feelest the sharpness of the edge, think that all who have gone before thee have been lacerated in like manner.

Keep Straight Ahead.

Pay no attention to slanderers or gossip-mongers. Keep straight on in your course, and let their backbiting die the death of neglect. What is the use of lying awake nights brooding over the remark of some false friend, that runs through your brain like forked lightning? What's the use of getting into a worry and fret over gossip that has been set afloat to your disadvantage by some meddlesome busybody who has more time than character. These things can't possibly injure you, unless, indeed, you take notice of them, and in combating them give them character and standing. If what is said about you is true, set yourself right at once. If it is false, let it go for what it will fetch. If a bee stings you, you would not go to the hive and destroy it. Would not a thousand come upon you? It is wisdom to say little respecting the injuries you have received. We are generally losers in the end if we stop to refute all the backbitings and gossipings we may hear by the way. They are annoying, it is true, but not dangerous so long as we do not stop to expostulate and scold. Our characters are formed and sustained by ourselves, and by our actions and purposes, and not by others. Let us always bear in mind that calumniators may usually be trusted to time and the slow but steady justice of public opinion.

The Pen.

The earliest mode of writing was on bricks, tiles, oyster-shells, stones, ivory, bark and leaves of trees; and from the latter "leaves of a book" is probably derived. Copper and brass plates were very early in use, and a bill of feoffment on copper was some years since discovered in India, bearing date one hundred years B. C.

Leather was also used, as well as wooden tablets. Then the papyrus came into vogue, and about the eighth century the papyrus was superceded by parchment. Paper, however, is of great antiquity, especially among the Chinese; but the first paper-mill in England was built in 1586, by a German, at Dartford, in Kent.—Nevertheless, it was nearly a century and a half—namely, in 1713—before Thomas Watkins, a stationer, brought paper-making to anything like perfection.

The first approach to a pen was the stylus, a kind of iron bodkin; but the Romans forbade its use on account of its frequent and even fatal use in quarrels, and then it was made of bone. Subsequently reeds, pointed and split, like pens in the present day, were used.

THE German mining laws are to be introduced into Alsace and Lorraine, "so that German speculators can take part in unearthing the riches of the new provinces."

Medical.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, Such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Coughs, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has anything won so wide and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to cold and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them.

Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing else could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.

Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.

Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.

So generally are its virtues known that we need not publish the certificates of them here, or do more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

As its name implies, it does Cure, and does not fail. Containing neither Arsenic, Quinine, Bismuth, Zinc, nor any other mineral or poisonous substance whatever, it in nowise injures any patient. The number and importance of its cures in the ague districts, are literally beyond account, and we believe without a parallel in the history of ague medicine. Our pride is gratified by the acknowledgements we receive of the radical cures effected in obstinate cases, and where other remidies had wholly failed.

Unacclimated persons, either residence in, or travelling through miasmatic localities, will be protected by taking the Ague Cure daily

For Liver Complaints, arise from torpidity of the Liver, it is an excellent remedy, stimulating the Liver into healthy activity.

For Bilious Disorders and Liver complaints, it is an excellent remedy, producing many truly remarkable cures, where other medicines had failed.

THE Novelty Clothes Wringer.

Nothing, except the Sewing Machine, has ever been invented which so much relieves the labor of the household as the Wringer. But its usefulness does not end here. The saving of clothing is of much greater importance. It is often remarked that articles of fine texture, last twice as long when wrung in a Wringer as when wrung by hand. The NOVELTY has Cog-wheels on both ends. * * The rolls are allowed to separate freely at either end. These, besides other advantages which it contains, seem to be indispensable to a practical wringer.—New York Independent.

The Novelty Wringer.—Has become an indispensable institution in thousands of families. And we believe its great and increasing popularity is fully merited—for the Novelty evidently possesses all the requisites of a first-class, practical machine. Indeed, after using one for many months in our own family, we are prepared to indorse the Novelty as unsurpassed (the laundress says unequaled,) by any of the several wringers previously tried. Moore's Rural New Yorker

LOOK OUT FOR THE ASSEMBLY.

We once more admonish Republicans to look out well for the Assembly tickets. The Democratic party in Pennsylvania, says the Philadelphia Press, is making only half a canvass. The managers care nothing for the State ticket—the game is not worth their powder. It is on the Legislative ticket that their energies are concentrated, and for this they have personal as well as political reasons. Under the last apportionment we have a putative majority of one in the Senate and six in the House of Assembly. The present constitution of the upper body will not probably be changed this year, and calculating upon this and the fact that a gain of three members in the lower branch, and the retention of their conceded districts, will give them a free legislative sweep, with power to annul the registry law and so elect a United States Senator in 1873, our wily friends of the Opposition have left M'Candless and Cooper to take care of themselves, while they are working in the interest of Chairman Wallace. To defeat them, as we have often urged before, it is only necessary to poll a full Republican vote. In 1862 a Democrat was elected in a Republican district of Philadelphia by six votes; his vote in the Legislature sent Buckalew to the United States Senate by one majority, and Buckalew's vote helped to defeat the impeachment of Andrew Johnson, and to foment the disturbances in the South which have made reconstruction a farce in some States.

LYCOMING COUNTY POLITICS.—We notice in the nominations made by the Republican County Convention of Lycoming, among others that Samuel E. Furst, Esq., was selected as the candidate for District Attorney.

Mr. Furst is a gentleman of integrity and good moral character, and if elected to that office (as we hope he will be) will discharge the duties with fidelity and impartiality. We think the party, in confering this honor on him, has added strength to the ticket. We hope the Republicans of that county will now go to work in earnest and all together, and make good their nominations by a triumphant victory in October.

They have put into the field good men—a ticket that every true man can most conscientiously support. We shall look for good news from old Lycoming on the second Tuesday of October. Let us not look in vain.

The most astonishing cure of chronic diarrhœa we ever heard of is that of Wm. Clark, Frankfort Mills, Waldo Co., Maine; the facts are attested by Ezra Treat, Upton Treat and M. A. Merrill, either of whom might be addressed for particulars. Mr. Clark was cured by Johnson's Anodyne Liniment.

Hon. Joseph Farewell, Mayor of Rockland, Me., Isaac M. Bragg, Esqe., Bangor, and Messrs. Pope Bros, Machias Me., lumber merchants, fully endorsed the Sheridan Cavalry Condition Powders, and have given the proprietors liberty to use their names in recommending them.

DEMOCRATIC FINANCIERING.

Hon. Columbus Delano delivered a speech in Sandusky, Ohio, on the 24th ult., which ought to be carefully read by every tax-payer in the country. After showing the difference in the revenue receipts and the cost of collecting the same, between the administration of Andrew Johnson and the present Republican administration, he proceeded to show up Democratic financiering in localities where it has had undisputed control for years; in the City of New York and the State of Kentucky. He says:

Here, I shall draw on the example of New York as practicing the party faith in its most abundant purity. In this elysium of Democracy it is understood that systematic and magnificent plans have been fostered for a national triumph at the next election. It is believed that these plans embrace the raising of large sums of money there, which being expediently used, will enable Tammany Hall to control the Democratic nominations and secure the election. That conclusive proof of this corrupt scheme should be so eagerly presented to the people was not expected; and but for the courage and integrity of an able and prominent journalist of New York, in exposing the plan, could hardly be realized. This plan contemplates the expenditure by the city officials of large amounts of money ostensibly for work never done, as well as enormous sums for jobs actually executed. From the amounts thus corruptly disbursed contractors are to contribute with corresponding munificence to the Tammany fund for the purposes of the next presidential election. Here is the motive for these enormous and unparalleled frauds, without which it is difficult to understand how such gross dishonesty could have been perpetrated. With this lay, observe the monstrous fact:

Debt of N. Y. City, Dec. 31, 1869	$34,407,017
Debt of N. Y. City, Apr. 30, 1871	84,541,156
Increase of the debt in 28 months	50,134,139

How can this increase be accounted for? For what was this monstrous city expenditure made? Let us examine the items:

For carpenter's work, carpets and shades in county offices	$5,653,646
For plastering county offices and armories during eleven months	2,870,464
For Plumbing and gas fitting	1,251,617
Paid Ingersoll, Garvey & Miller, one year	8,321,965

This example ought to be sufficient. It illustrates the venality, speculation and political prostitution which cover the Tammany Democracy, and render its moral atmosphere and presence feculent, obnoxious and infamous.—Here was paid a larger sum for repairs, carpets and furniture for county offices, than the recent administration paid the same year for mail transportation throughout the United States; nearly three times as much as the entire diplomatic expenses for two years past; as much as the yearly cost of collecting the customs revenues, more than all the miscellaneous expenditures of the interior department for either year of the present administration, and more than the entire annual expenses of the Indian bureau! Here is a larger sum paid, in eleven months, for plastering, than the expense of the United States for foreign intercourse during the present administration; more for plumbing and gas fitting, in one year, than the expenses attending all the public buildings and grounds in Washington city.—There was paid more money to three men for such expenditures, in one year, than was paid for the collection of the internal revenue of the country in any year of the present administration; more than double the expense of the United States courts for two years, and more than all the expenses of the Forty-first Congress.

With such a policy as this transferred to Washington, the Democratic clamor that the national debt must not be paid off now, would be found full of meaning and full of danger. Public credit would fail, and distrust of all public security be openly avowed. The government could not long survive such management.

The people of New York must at once awake to their danger. The present debt is $80 per capita. If their municipal affairs are not improved their public securities must seriously depreciate, their real instigated by lawless men, and to the pecuniary plunder of the political thieves who are seeking to gain possession.

KENTUCKY FINANCIERING.

If it shall be objected that Democratic financiering in New York does not correctly represent its average ability and integrity, then I propose briefly to refer the objector to one other example. Kentucky has never been corrupted by the control or direction of Republicans. It has been and is the refuge and asylum of those who like the Rev. Petroleum V. Nasby, are compelled to leave other localities for righteousness sake. I will, therefore, present the condition of financiering in this State, as it was recently stated by the Republican candidate for governor:

"The Republican party charge the Democratic party with squandering the public money of the State of Kentucky. I desire to say something to you about the State debt. It is a question you are all interested in. I make the statement and my friend will not dispute it. You pay over a million dollars annually for the support of the State government.—The sheriffs collect it, and it is paid into the State Treasury. Since 1867 the Democratic party has been in power.—They have collected this vast sum of money annually and spent it each year, and to-day there is not a dollar in the Treasury. Not a dollar. They have not only collected a million of dollars annually, but took $650,000 from the school fund, and spent that; and at the last session of the legislature they passed an act authorizing the governor to borrow $500,000 more out of the sinking fund to defray the ordinary expenses of the General Assembly. They have collected over $4,000,000, and spent every dollar of it, borrowed $600,000 more and authorized the borrowing of an additional $500,000. I ask my competitor, what have you done with that money? How have you appropriated it?"

LOUISVILLE.

If this example fails to please, I desire to present one more example on the subject.

The city of Louisville has always been in the hands of the Democracy, and their management of the city finances is so ably stated by that careful, able and reliable gentleman, Edgar Needham, Esq., in a speech recently made in that city, that I deem it best to present a portion of his facts. He says:

"AMOUNT OF TAXES ASSESSED IN THE CITY OF LOUISVILLE.

1862	$373,537
1863	454,590
1864	465,318
1865	569,559
1866	857,288
1867	998,438
1868	1,067,162
1869	1,081,177
1870	1,386,013

"Observe, fellow citizens, how beautifully progressive these figures are.—They become 'small by degrees and beautifully less,' only the smallness and the lessness is at the wrong end; but that doesn't trouble our Democratic speakers a particle, for they have quite as much as they can do to attend to the affairs of the national government.

"The State tax for the city of Louisville and county of Jefferson has also increased in about the same ratio. In 1860 the State tax was $123,069,49; in 1869 it had increased to $251,730 66, and in 1870 to $388,268 79.

"The amount of tax per capita has also largely increased. In 1865 the amount of tax—city and State—in Louisville was $9,58-100 for each inhabitant, but in 1870 the amount had increased to over $17.

"There are in Louisville about one hundred and twenty six classes and kinds of business which must pay a license tax ranging from $10 to $500 each.

"Just as soon as Congress took off a portion of the license taxes the city put them on again, but a great deal heavier.

"You can't cut a persons corns in Louisville without paying for the privilege. The Louisville Democrats call a corn-cutter a chiropodist, and charge him $10 a year for the use of the name.

"In this Democratic city fortune tellers and astrologers, who are mostly poor women, must pay a license tax of $200 each, while the wealthy lawyer is let off with $10. The business of the former is said to be immoral, and so the Democracy will call to their aid the blue laws of Connecticut; they will suppress what they choose to regard as immoral tendencies and practices by oppressive taxation. So much for the Democratic debt and taxation in the metropolis of the State."

A TEMPERANCE VETERAN SPEAKS.

The Exposure of the Factious Course of Black, McFarland, Rauch & Co.

THE POLITICO-TEMPERANCE NOMINATIONS REPUDIATED.

Pennel Coombe Sends Greeting to Pennsylvania Editors.

GENTLEMEN: Having read the selections from sixteen papers of this State, published in the State Journal of August 30th, in regard to the Temperance ticket placed before the people by the so-called convention in Harrisburg, August 9th, I am satisfied that the character of this action is not understood. Whithout intending it, some of you are doing a great wrong to the main body of temperance men by treating it as you do. You speak of it as an action for which the temperance cause is responsible, and as if it had some official character. It is a movement by a very few dissatisfied men who have separated themselves from the main body, and in the language of their Address, "formed a party, adopted a platform and nominated candidates."

This movement had its origin with the present editor of the official organ of the Good Templars, who was joined by a few men of good character, he having made them believe that the cause had been "sold out" by the president of the May Convention. Under the representation these men united in a call for the August convention. On June 30th the State Central committee was appointed, and the leaders of the August movement accepted position on, and met with this State committee July 11th. This should have been the end of this movement, as the reasons assigned no longer existed. Instead of this, these men met, and in spite of all efforts to prevent it, put a State ticket in nomination in opposition to the plan of the May convention. These men attempted to justify their action by declaring that "they were acting only as individuals, and without official authority. Now they claim official character, and say they "have formed a party," &c.

From these facts, it will be seen that this August action is nothing less than rebellion against the authority of the convention of which these men still claim to form a part. Therefore, temperance men, as a body, are in no way responsible for it. Already, several district conventions in different parts of the State have repudiated this action. The State Committee will do so, and other organizations will follow. Let this faction be so treated hereafter as to involve no man who is true to his principles and faithful to his pledges.

P. COOMBE.

Lancaster, Pa., Aug. 29, 1871.

THE colored men of the United States will hold two conventions of national importance this fall. The first is called a national convention and will meet in St. Louis on the 22d of September. The second is called a Southern convention, although it is thought that nearly all the States will be represented; it will meet in Columbia, South Carolina, on the 18th of October.

THE 2nd Tuesday of October—10th day of the month—will be election day. Remember this, Republicans of Centre and let every voter make it a point to vote early. Should there be any lagging behind, bring them out. See that every Republican is at his post. Let not one fail to vote and then your duty will be done and well done.

Home.

To cultivate love at home requests more skill, patience, and perseverance than many of us really possess. By skill, I mean to be able at all times and under all circumstances to make home cheerful and happy. Often we meet with trials and vexations in our daily walk through life, and on our return home, after having endured the fatigue and disappointments of our vocations, it requires all the ingenuity we are capable of exercising to enable us to appear in a contented frame of mind, so that those about us will not feel that in place of bringing pleasure, we cast a shadow over the household. Patient at all times with those around us, we never should indulge in unpleasant feelings, even if everything does not move along as smoothly as we would desire.

How many homes are rendered unhappy when a little patience would work wonders, if I may so speak.—Persevere in all things; surmount every difficulty that appears to impede our progress, and when those obstacles are passed we can look backward to them as so many stepping-stones which lead us onward in our path of social duty. Parents should endeavor to instil useful knowledge into the minds of children; not to be select and unsocial at their own firesides, and the life of every company they enter. If they have not mental stories sufficient for both, let them provide first for their own household. It is a poor maxim for parents or children to reserve their social charms for companions abroad, and retain their dullness for home. It is better that all should be made happy at home, than for them to seek enjoyment among strangers.

How many men utter careless words to their wives and sisters, which seem trifling at first. Such things cast their shadows over the happy throng. Mothers speak harshly or impatiently to their children. Need we be surprised if the child prefers the freedom of the street to its home? Friends speak unkindly to each other, and when it is too late mourn over those hasty words which have caused an impassable barrier to spring up between them. Men, instead of letting so many unkind words pass their lips, should remember that it is not only at home nor in their places of business that kind words should be spoken, it should be everywhere. How much good a kind word has done. Many a poor outcast has been reclaimed by kindness.

It should teach us to be kind and courteous to all. Let us be actuated by genuine love in all our undertakings towards our fellow beings. And where let me ask, can we find the love of home more beautifully delineated than in the touching ballad of J. Howard Paine, an outcast and wanderer upon the earth? Even in his own-loved America, oftentimes he has listened to the delightful strains of music of which he himself was the author, scarcely able to tell from whence he should obtain his next supply of food, while his song was translated and had become the favorite household theme of almost every nation and tongue under the canopy of heaven. One by one the words we utter fall upon the air, making waves that strike our ears, and then are gone. There are some which swell on, but are never lost. So it is with kind words; they are like the dew-drop—small they appear, but the good—who can tell.

Let the mandate given by the Prince of Peace be heeded. Even as the Father loveth us, so should we love one another; and when our pilgrimage is over, we will be permitted to sit at the right hand of the Father, and have the glorious privilege of enjoying the peace, happiness, and love of our heavenly home.

"There is music all around,
When there's love at home."

Conditions Of Success.

Fortune, success and fame are positions which are never gained but by piously, determinedly, bravely sticking to a thing till it is fairly accomplished. In short, you must carry a thing through if you want to be anybody or anything. No matter if it does cost you the pleasure, the society; the thousand pearly gratifications of life. No matter for these. Stick to a thing, and carry it through. Believe you were made for the matter, and that no one else can do it. Put forth your whole energies. Be awake, electrify yourself; go forth to the task. Only once learn to carry it through in all its completeness and proportion, and you will be a hero. You will think better of yourself; others will think better of you. The world in its very heart admires the stern, determined doer. It sees him in its best light, its brightest object, its richest treasure. Drive right along, then, in whatever you undertake. Consider yourself amply sufficient for the deed, and you'll be successful.

THE NEW DEPARTURE.—The Mobile Register (Democratic) has a very happy way of taking off the "gloss" from the "New Departurists." In replying to the Montgomery Advertiser it gives it some very gentle lifts:

"Will our Montgomery friend pardon us just a slight word of caution? to wit: Not to be quite so pronounced and dogmatic in this 'New Departure' business; that sort of course does not make it friends anywhere. In the South, especially, there is a general repugnance to the argument of compulsion. But there is another hint. Has the possibility occured to the Advertiser, that after all its persistence that the 'New Departure' is to be a sure thing in the Democratic platform, yet it may NOT be; in short, that a year hence the Democracy will scout it as an unworthy dodge and make up its mind to stand squarely up to its principles?"

WANTED.—Young men are wanted now as much as ever before; but those are most needed to-day who have the ability and determination to rise into the upper stories of life's work-house. There are enough everywhere who can do the same thing, and do it as well as thousands of others. But young men of positive purpose, pure principles, unyielding devotion to truth, who are brave and plucky enough to do what they undertake, if it lies within the possibilities of human achievement—these are the men the world wants now, and always will. And for such young men she has honors and success. Who will take them? We do not mean that you shall leave the honorable vocation in which you are engaged, if you are adapted to it, as very likely you are; but in it rise to the topmost round—diligence in duty will take you there.

THE AMERICAN WASHER?
PRICE $5.50
THE AMERICAN WASHER SAVES MONEY, TIME, AND DRUDGERY.
The Fatigue of Washing Day no Longer Dreaded, but Economy, Efficiency, and Clean Clothing, Sure.
In calling public attention to this little machine, a few of the invaluable qualities, (not possessed by any other washing machine yet invented,) are here enumerated.
It is the smallest, most compact, most portable, most simple in construction, most easily operated. A child ten years old, with a few hours' practice, can thoroughly comprehend and effectually use it. There is no adjusting, no screws to annoy, no delay in adapting! It is always ready for use! It is a perfect little wonder! It is a miniature giant, doing more work and of a better quality, than the most elaborate and costly. One half of the labor is fully saved by its use, and the clothes will last one-half longer than by the old plan of the rub board. It will wash the largest blanket. Three shirts at a time, washing thoroughly! In a word, the ablution of any fabric, from a Quilt to a Lace Curtain or Cambric Handkerchief, are equally within the capacity of the LITTLE GEM! It can be fastened to any tub and taken of at will
No matter how deep rooted a prejudice may exist against Washing Machines, the moment this little machine is seen to perform its wonders, all doubts of its cleansing efficacy and utility are banished, and the doubter and detractor at once becomes the fast friends of the machine.
We have testimonials without end, setting forth its numerous advantages over all others, and from hundreds who have thrown aside the unwieldy, useless machines, which have signally failed to accomplish the object promised in prominent and loud sounding advertisements.
It is as perfect for washing as a wringer is for wringing. The price another paramount inducement to purchasers, has been placed so low that it is within the reach of every housekeeper and there is no article of domestic economy that will repay the small investment so soon.
All that is asked for this GREAT LABOR SAVER, is a fair trial. We guarantee each machine to do its work perfectly.

Medical.

The Great Medical Discovery!
Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
VINEGAR BITTERS,
Hundreds of Thousands
Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.
WHAT ARE THEY?
They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing the combined powers of the most perfect Depurative and Diuretic agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal. Send for a circular.
THEY ARE NOT A VILE
FANCY DRINK,
Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to direction and remain long unwell.
For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION.
Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.
They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.
FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

The new pavement in front of the residences of F. Smith, B. V. Black, Cyrus Strickland, J. B. Ettele and M. Howard, Esqrs., on Bishop street is a vast improvement over the old flag-stone pavement. There are many others who should follow the example of these gentlemen, for certainly there are many more sidewalks in our town that are not only an eye-sore but almost impassible, being rough, uneven and break-neck affairs. Let the good work go on, until our town may feel proud of her sidewalks.

At a regular meeting of Washington Camp, No 88, Patriotic Order Sons of America held at Renovo, Sept 1st 1871, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God in his Divine Providence to remove from our midst and Camp Fire our beloved brother James M. Ward, we therefore submit to the will of him who doeth all things well, therefore be it.

Resolved, That in the death of our Brother we lose a good and worthy member of our Camp and Order, and tender our earnest sympathy to the members of his family in their affliction.

Resolved, That as a mark of respect for the memory of our departed Brother, our charter be draped in mourning for thirty days and the members wear the usual badge of mourning.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the family of deceased and be published in Camp News and Clinton and Centre County papers.

Pic-Nic.—On last Saturday the Elite of Boalsburg, drove to the Old Fort grove, for the purpose of having a pic-nic. To their surprise they found the dancing platform formally used by the valley picnicers so inviting that they could not withstand the temptation. Music was sought and a dance was engaged in by all. Thus spending a few hours in this pleasant and invigorating passtime, they returned to their homes as quietly as they came. Feeling well satisfied with the pleasantness of the occasion and the manner in which they had spent their time, we leave them to the enjoyment of their thoughts and to pass the night in the fond embrace of sweet Morpheus.

Fire Department.—We have been thinking for some time of writing an exhaustive article (if we could) on fires and fire organizations. We were restrained from doing this for the reason that we were never well satisfied as to the exact age of the world when the first incendiary applied the torch.

We remember with pleasure the remark of an appreciative hibernian: "Good luck to the man who invented eating and drinking, but bad luck to the man who invented work." We say bad luck to the first incendiary, but good luck to the inventor of fire engines and fire plugs!

We have always lived in dread, more of this than any other element. Scarcely a night has passed over our heads that we did not fear that the next days sun would find us houseless and homeless. We have read with pleasure and admiration of the valiant deeds of the red shirted fireman, of his rescuing many a precious life from the seething flames, of his bravery and prowess on many a hotter field than that of a battle, and have always estimated him one of nature's choicest noblemen.

We remember, when we took all that was valuable from the Republican office, when the reeking flames, like some incarnate demon, let loose from Pandemonium, threatened the lives and worldly goods of many of our citizens; when our neighbors with blanched cheek and trembling lips saw their hard earned savings of many years, melt into nothing before their eyes, when strong arms and stronger hands were powerless to stay its ravages. We watched the brave hazardous feats of the Logan boys and were only sorry that there were not other fire organizations to assist them.

No property holder in Bellefonte will deny that another good well organized fire company on the night of that terrible fire would have stayed its ravages before, comparatively, any injury was done.

Would it not have been a good investment for the citizens to have bought and presented to the young men a good substantial aparatus? The financial statement would then have been something like this:

By amount property destroyed	$60,000
To Fire Aparatus	2,000
Balance	$57,000

This would probably have been the best enterprise in which our citizens ever embarked. Now then! A new fire company has been organized, composed of the best kind of material. A lot of ground has been leased upon which to erect an engine house, the contract to build said house has been made, a good substantial hose carriage and fire engine have been purchased, besides some 1200 feet of hose and the uniforms for the company.

The expense thus incurred is about three thousand dollars. A subscription paper has been circulated among the citizens and about $1,300 has been raised, it seems almost impossible to raise more, and yet it would hardly seem possible that Bellefonte with all her wealth and enterprise, could fail to give this small sum, when but a few weeks ago a score of times this amount was destroyed in a single night. It is shameful that men having property valued at hundreds of thousands should subscribe the trivial amounts that they have done.

The Town Council itself should have subscribed at least half the amount needed. It requires but a small amount of thought for every property holder to see that it is a good investment. Propty holders do your duty and come down with liberal subscriptions.

Death of Hon. J. C. Bailey.—We clip "the following from the Independent" published at Oskaloosa Kansas, the gentleman refered to is a native of Centre County and removed from it when a very young man. He is well known in Ferguson Twp., and his loss will be felt by a large circle of relations and friends in that part of our County:

Hon. J. C. Bailey, ex-State Senator of this county died on Sunday morning at his home in Perry. Mr. Bailey was a most estimable citizen. At the breaking out of the war he enlisted as a private, served his country faithfully, rose by his merit from the ranks to captain, and left the service with honor. He had been ill for some two weeks, but had partially recovered so as to be about, then took a relapse and died suddenly. Jefferson county has lost in him one of her most valued and energetic citizens.

THE FIREMENS PARADE AND PIC-NIC

We copy the following from the Altoona Tribune because it does justice to our Logan Fire Company. The members of the Logan are gentlemen. It matters not where they go, their actions speak louder than words. We trust them, we bet high on them; but read what the Tribune says:

The firemen's parade and pic-nic came off on Thursday last in accordance with the programme published in our previous issue. It was a very creditable display, and too much praise connot be awarded the members of our Board of Fire Department who labored so zealously to make it what it proved to be—a happy re-union of brave and daring young men from different parts of the States, laboring in a common cause, and between whom an attachment sincere enough for the deepest friendship had been formed on previous occasions. These joyous gatherings, these oasis spots as it were, in a calling fraught with arduous duties exercise a weighty influence upon the firemen who participate in them. Tightening the gordian knot and cementing more firmly the fraternal ties with which they are bound, they are to a certain degree, prolific of real enjoyment and much good.

The visiting firemen from Harrisburg, Bellefonte, Hollidaysburg and Johnstown, made a fine appearance in the parade, presenting a manly bearing, and the citizens of those cities and towns no doubt feel proud of their fire organizations. Their make up, to a man, seemed to indicate fealty to the cause they have espoused in the past, while on their determined visages dutyfaithfully performed in the future was plainly foreshadowed.

The Logan company, of Bellefonte, accompanied by the Philipsburg Band, was the first to arrive in our city, on the Mail Train, Wednesday evening, and were taken in charge by the Fire Department and domiciled at the St. Charles.

The Fast Line the same evening brought the Hope company, of Harrisburg, and their excellent drum corps. The Altoona (P. R. R.) boys froze on to them and guided them to the Brant caravansary, where they hung up their hats

On the morning of the parade, the Allegheny and Phœnix companies, of Hollidaysburg, accompanied by the Social Cornet Band, of that place, and the Good Will company, with drum corps, of Johnstown, put in an appearance.—The former were given in charge of the Empire boys, careful vigil being exercised over the Phœnix by our green-shirted Vigilants, while the Good Will, of our city, did the agreeable to their namesake of Johnstown.

And what can we say of the pic-nic? We were unable to attend, however our thanks are gratefully tendered the Fire Department for their invitation to participate in the festivities of the occasion. The object of the picnic was a grand re-union of the Altoona Fire Department and their brother firemen from other places, and we trust that as such the day in the woods passed pleasantly to all interested.

By Friday evening the firemen from abroad had left Altoona via P. R. R., home, and we trust with Good Will toward all and with a bright and joyous Hope for the future. May they in all the trials and duties with which they have to combat while passing through the fiery ordeal of the pilgrimage in this lower world, ever be Vigilant in all that pertains to right—never deviating from principle. As they return to their respective homes from their brief sojourn among our mighty Allegheny mountains, upon whose cloud-capped peaks, and down whose rugged slopes, where the blasted trunks of the old pines and oaks stand out like grim sentinels, old Logan, the Chief of the Mingoes, once roamed at will, may they, refreshed and invigorated, renew their devotion to the Empire which they call their own. And, the cornor stone being laid upon which will be built the mightiest nation the world has ever seen, may they diligently go to work with Excelsior as their motto and assist in rearing that National structure higher and still higher in the admiration and respect of the known world. Again, let us all remember that Phœnix like, and that, too, in an incredible short space of time, we must arise from our own ashes and give a full and just account of the deeds done in the body.

In this connection we desire to return our thanks to the gentlemanly members of that social organization, the Hollidaysburg Cornet Band, for their social gathering in front of our office and rendering some of those delightful strains of music for which they are proverbial. The members of the Social Cornet manipulate their two-story shining instruments in a manner which never fails to to reflect credit upon their musical qualifications, and stamps them as musicians of the first water. Thanks, gentlemen, thanks.

We have received the September number of "Peoples Monthly," the new Pittsburgh Illustrated paper for the masses. What Philadelphia, Baltimore and Chicago have not yet dared to attempt, Pittsburg has done and done well. This number will vie in fineness of paper and illustrations, and in excellence of typography and literary contents, with the very best of New York Illustrated's. We are glad to hear that it is a success, and that mechanics, workmen, and all who labor, are hastening in their clubs. This number has a four page supplement making twenty pages of varied, useful, and interesting matter. It is besides cheery, wholesome, and high-toned, and should be in every family where there are grown boys and girls, and where purity is esteemed. The plans of cheap and tasty homes contained in each number would alone pay many times the small price asked—only a dollar and a half a year. Address the publishers, McKnight, Lowry & Co., Pittsburgh. One copy free for a club of five.

The new disenfectant, Bromo Chloralum, meets the great want of something adapted to all conditions where prompt deodorizing and disinfection are necessary. It is entirely oderless, non-poisonous and harmless, and being largely diluted when used, its economy brings it within the reach of all who wish to employ this simple means for the preservation of health during the warm season. 1t.

Suddenly, of Apoplexy, on Wednesday Sept 6th, at Oskaloosa Iowa, M. Thompson Milliken, of Bellefonte Penna., Aged 49 years.

"Our brother Lazarus Sleepeth."

M. T. Milliken is gone. He has gone to that "Bourne whence no traveler returns." He will be missed in this community—missed because he was a christian gentleman, and such men are always missed. M. T. Milliken was a member of the firm of Valentines & Millikeu. This firm has gained a world wide reputation for probity, integrity, honest and fair dealin g. M. T. Milliken was the head and fronte of this firm. He was a great accountant, an energetic business man, and a high minded honorable citizen. The best evidence, of the esteem in which he was held, by not only his men but the community in which he lived, is the fact that thirty-two of the forgemen and others who have been in his employ for years, and years, came and offered themselves as carriers. They said "he stood by us, supported us, while living, we want to honor him—support him when dead." God bless the stalwart forgemen. They have proved by their action that gratitude is a great virtue, and that their hearts are as big and as pure as the heart of the good Samaritan. They came. They come to pay the last tribute of respect to a great and good man—to their patron saint. They said;

"Great God! how could thy vengeance light
So bitterly on one so bright?
How could the hand, that gave such charms,
Blast them again."

The funeral took place on Saturday last. It was the largest funeral we have ever witnessed in Bellefonte on a week day. Thus again proving the deep esteem in which the deceased was held by the community in which he has labored" lived and prospered.

Oh! how the Sunday School cause will miss him. The school at the Forge will miss him. Those dear little children, who came regularly as the Sabbath, to hear the pleasant christian words which fell from his lips, will miss him. Next Sabbath he will not be there; but children remember that he has been called by the great Master, and is to-day in that glorious Heaven of which he talked so much, and to which he directed your youthful minds, as the chief object of your ambition.

He died at Oskaloosa, without a minutes warning. He fell dead on the street from congestion of the brain. He was prepared. What a consolation to know that he was always ready. What a blessing to live that whensoever the Master calls we are ready to respond, and to hear the welcome plaudit, "Well done good and faithful servant enter into the joys of thy Lord."

M. T. Milliken, rest in peace.

For the Republican.

Don't Cry, Mother, I'm Much Better.

BY PHILO.

Lovely Laura's gone to rest,
Angels bright above
Took her in their tender arms,
To the land of love.
Those eyes so sparkling, now are sealed,
Closed—her laughing lips, so red,
She now lies so motionless
On her snow-white bed.

"Don't cry, mother, I'm much better,"
In God's bright and holy land,
Singing with his band.

We will miss her lovely form,
And her sunny smile,
And the light from her bright eyes,
Free from every guile,
We will miss her merry laugh
And the patter of her feet;
But we know when life is o'er
Laura—we shall meet.

"And when sorrow's clouds o'er cast,
Life's o'erbending sky;"
Our sweet Laura then will come
From her home on high.
"Don't cry, mother, I'm much better,"
Echoes back to us below;
She is safe with her Redeemer—
We all soon must go.

THE DEMOCRATIC CAMP.

Looking over into the Democratic camp we see our friends there in a sorry plight, in consequence of their "New Departure." Although, during the last 15 years they indulged in several departures from the beaten track of their policy, yet this last is probable the sorriest one of all, and will require all their courage to bear up under.

In none of their peregrinations, heretofore, have they made such vast sacrifice, and left all behind they esteemed most dear. But now they forsake the very centre piece of the magic block of subterfuges that united in their conflicts with truth and right, and turn their back upon what was the pride of their manhood and the joy of their strength "the shin-bone and thick skull theology." This is no longer the citadel of their hopes and bright morning star of their creed.

No longer will the Democracy twinkle with new delight when the tender shin and thick skull of the "everlasting nigger" is portrayed in glowing colors by the unterrified apostles. No longer will the war horses of Democracy furnish us with learned dissertations on the interesting subject of the negree's soul. No longer will Democratic maidens all dressed in white and comfortably seated on Democratic wagons, going to Democratic meetings, carry banners with the inscription "white husbands or none." No longer will the masses be treated to eloquent discourses on "wooly heads" "negro lovers" &c., &c. All these our eyes have seen and our ears heard, but we shall see and hear them no longer, and it was all the little stock of valuables they possessed, and now they propose to abandon it in its direst necessity.

Ungrateful wretches, to think they would ride their favorite hobby until it was weak and cripled, and no longer able to support them, and then murder the faithful creature that has done so much for them and been their stand-by these many years.

It must be agonizing for those of the Democratic party who worshipped the beast so long, to see it bleeding to death from wounds inflicted by their own hands. And is it true indeed that we shall never more hear anything on the subject of "shin-bones" "thick skulls" &c. It is—and is it not a pity? We shall miss it very much. Did our Democratic friends but know the pleasure and amusement they deprive the world off they would not soon set out on a new departure, and abandon what has become so interesting.

Within the period of the recollection of the present generation, the Democratic party made several departures, perhaps not a whit more gratifying to them than this. For instance, their departures from Fort Donnelson, from Vicksburg, from Gettysburg, from Richmond, from Appomatox, &c. These necessitated a change in Democratic tactics and disarranged their plans for the time being, but through all their gerry manderings they held on, like grim death, to their shinbone theology. That was the green oasis in the desert of their troubles, where they would gather fresh courage to battle against time and fate. But now, alas! this is their refuge and retreat no longer. The destroying angel, that has made such fearful havoc with Democratic pledges, principles and platforms, has now laid this, their high tower, low in the dust, and our sympathies are stirred to the very bottom when we think of the desolation that has come upon the unterrified Democracy.

NATIONAL FINANCES—WHAT HAS BEEN ACCOMPLISHED.

The Record of the Republican party shows that taking a plundered and exhausted treasury, burdened with the enormous responsibilities of the slaveholder's Rebellion, which it crushed, and of the succeeding Democratic conspiracy to present reconstruction, against which the Government and loyal people in the South are still struggling, that it has carried the nation through in triumph and is now able to present as the result of an harmonius Republican Administration, the following striking proofs of economy and honesty:

1st. That in the first two years and one month of the administration of President Grant there has been an actual reduction of the public debt to the amount of $215,765,663.74.

2nd. That the annual interest charged to the people has, within the same period, been reduced in the sum of $12,062,997,96—consequently, affording permanent annual relief from taxation to that amount.

3rd. That the net gold discount actually realized to the public treasury on the purchase of bonds, by which purchase the debt has been mainly reduced, is $14,585,838,56.

4th. That, in consequence of the measures and policy of the Republican Congress and Administration, the public credit, although greatly disturbed by the war, advanced during the period from the early part of the year 1861 (the close of the Democratic administration of President Buchanan) to March 1st 1869—reaching an aggregate appreciation, as applied to the then existing values and principal of the public debt, of three hundred and sixty-five millions of dollars; and, by the still more efficient administration of President Grant, the public credit, as referred to the now existing values and debt, (April 1st, 1871,) has been further advanced, within a little more than two years, making an appreciation during this short period as applicable to the now existing debt, of six hundred and fifteen millions of dollars; also showing that the appreciation since the close of the last Democratic administration early in 1861, applicable to the existing values and debt, is eight hundred and sixty-five millions of dollars.

5th. Within the period from March 4th, 1869, to April 1st 1871, the appreciation of the National and National Bank currency was eighteen (18) per cent., making an aggregate appreciation of $85,000,000 which has accrued to the people in consequence of the advancement of the public credit by the Republican policy.

6th. Reduction of annual expenditures of the fiscal year 1869, 70, as compared with the last year of Johnson's anministration, $56,532,193,07. As compared with the last year of Buchanan administration, upon [illegible] cents less, per capita, estimating the population $40,000,000, making an annual saving of $14,400,000.

7th. The internal taxes and customs duties have, since the close of the war for the suppression of the rebellion, been reduced by the amount per annum of $251,848,827.33.

8th. The postal service has been extendended and increased in efficiency, and its comparative expenditures materially reduced.

Reduction of Letter Postage Between the United States and Germany by the Direct Mails via Bremen and Hamburg, Respectively.—Post-office Department, Office of Foreign Mails, Washington, D. C. August 30, 1871.—An arrangement has just been concluded between the United States and Germany to take effect on the first of October next, which reduces the rate of international postage for prepaid letters exchanged between the two countries by the direct routes via Bremen and Hamburg, respectively, from 7 to 6 cents per each single rate of half an ounce or under. Unpaid letters so exchanged are to be charged with double the prepaid rates; and the insufficiently paid letters with the postage for unpaid letters after deduction of the amount prepaid.

It is particularly to be observed that this reduction applies to letters only; so that all correspondence other than letters posted in the United States for Germany will continue subject to the same rates of postage, and to the same conditions of compulsory prepayment as are now applicable thereto.

Postmasters will levy and collect postage accordingly on and after the 1st of October next. By order of the Postmaster General.
